Colonel E.M. possessed wide knowledge of the intricate systems of the Indian Presidency and was responsible for the investigation of several schemes of criminal enterprises. In particular, he took the greatest interest in the development of the Opium trade, and it is largely owing to his efforts that the Country Revenue Department has since during his term of office as Chief Engineer. NOTIFICATION.

Port St. George, November 22, 1912.

No. 44.—The following resolution of the Government of India is published:—
FINANCE DEPARTMENT.

For. Exchange and Finance Commission—COMMISSIONERS
India, the 22nd October 1912.

No. 1173-Y.E.—In 1905 the various bills in the exchange value of the rupee made it necessary to give some compensation to European officers employed in India who have adversely to meet money in England for the maintenance of their families, and provision was made to the extent of such a sum as the Government, designated Exchange Compensation Allowance, sufficient to enable them to meet such bills at their salary in Europe at a privileged rate, subject to a maximum limit of £1,000 a year. The Government took the form of a percentage on salary calculated on the difference between the sterling value of half salary at the market rate of exchange and its value at the privileged rate of 1s. 6d. per rupee, and was subject to the condition that it should be no more than in any quarter of the year the amount of rupees by which £100 exceeded at the privileged rate full value of the equivalent of £100 ascertained at the market rate. The percentage on salary was, under rule VII of the rules published with the Finance and Commerce Department's resolution No. 2022-Fr., dated the 14th May 1907, calculated by the Comptroller General each quarter and notified by him about the 15th day of the first month in the preceding quarter; and, subject to the provision that, it was under 1901 based on the amount by which the average demand rate of exchange during the quarter ending on the day named fell short of the privileged rate. In 1912 the exchange value of the rupee had become gradually stable at 1s. 6d., and it was decided in the Finance and Commerce Department's resolution No. 2022-Fr., dated the 14th February 1912, that, in order to avoid the quarterly calculations, instead of the average quarterly rate, the market rate of exchange should, until further orders, be taken at 1s. 6d. per rupee. The decision has been in force up to the present time, and the percentage on salary calculated under the Exchange Compensation Allowance has accordingly been 1s. 6d. since 1907.

2. As the result of special conditions due to the war the exchange value of the rupee has in recent months risen above 1s. 6d. and the rate fixed by the Secretary of State for the sale of Government bills at the present time is 1s. 6d. In view of this rise, the maintenance of Exchange Compensation Allowance (which is given solely for remittance purposes) at a rate calculated on an exchange value of 1s. 6d. cannot be justified, and the Government in Council, therefore, decide that the method of calculating the allowance provided in rule VII of the rules published with the Finance and Commerce Department's resolution No. 2022-Fr., dated the 14th May 1907, shall be continued. The Finance and Commerce Department's resolution No. 2022-Fr., dated the 14th May 1907, is accordingly amended so as to read from the last of December 1912, and the percentage to be given as Exchange Compensation Allowance on all salaries drawn on and after that date will be calculated by the Comptroller of Currency each quarter with reference to the market rate of exchange, and notified by him about the 15th day of the first month in the preceding quarter.
